

WALNUT-TWP FIRE DAMAGE IS $4,000

APRIL GRAND JURY RETURNS ELEVEN INDICTMENTS

NUMBER CASES SMALLER THAN EVER BEFORE

Little Time Spent With Colored Station Robbers and Girl Auto Thieves.

The Pickaway-co April grand jury, in session Monday and Tuesday, returned 11 indictments out of 17 cases. Five cases were ignored and three were secret, and the case against Rolland Ward of Ashville, for removing mortgaged property from the county with intent to defraud was passed to the next grand jury because of the illness of the prosecution witness, R. L. Cnswell, who is in a hospital.

The number of cases placed before the grand jury was the smallest that has ever been presented. County officials say that the fact that workhouse sentences have been dealt to numerous offenders has cut down crime considerably in Pickaway-co. This solution to the low number of cases seems to be the right one.

Those against whom indictments were returned were:

Forrest Moss for assault and battery on Peter Justus;

George Link, colored, for burglary of the outkitchen of Jane Hitt, this city;

Wesley Trego, Scioto-twp, for stealing chickens from Frank Hudson;

Noah Skaggs, who is now serving a sentence in the workhouse, for carrying concealed weapons.

Stewart Quinn, for failure to provide for two minor children;

Frank Holt and Ernest Gill, colored of Columbus, for robbery of the Lindsey service station on the Columbus-pk last Saturday;

Daisy Reisinger and Roxey DeSonia for automobile theft of the car of Wesley Nibert here last Friday night;

Albert McWhorter, Era, O., for burglary and larceny of the grocery of Leo Creath, Era.

The grand jury, of which H. E. Deffenbaugh of Tarlton, was foreman, reported at about 10:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Very little time was taken with several of the cases, including those of Frank Holt and Ernest Gill, who were apprehended less than one-half hour after they were said to have taken $5 from Mrs. Leah Lindsey of the Columbus-pk. Very little time was spent over the case of Daisy Reisinger and Roxey DeSonia for stealing cars.

DARBYVILLE POPULATION INCREASES

Returns Show Village Population Now 222 While In 1920 It Was 206.

Darbyville village has increased its population by 16 persons from January 1, 1920 to April 1, 1930, according to an announcement by Gaylord C. Peters, Lancaster, supervisor of the census of this district. Darbyville's population is now 222 persons and in 1920 it was 206.

The announcement of the population of the Darbyville, as enumerated by George W. Winfough, is the first made by any enumerator in this county. These figures are preliminary and subject to change.

With the census-taking now one week under way, many enumerators have reported that people will not answer their doors making it necessary to call at certain homes two and sometimes three times. Many evidently think the enumerators are book-agents or salesmen and do not answer their doors. Housewives should be on the lookout for the census takers and aid them in every way to complete their tasks as soon as possible.

GANDHI'S SON IMPRISONED

Big Boy Left Alone After Government Officials Mow Down Lieutenants.

LONDON, April 8.—The stern hand of British authority struck close to Mahatma Gandhi today, when the nationalist leader's son, Ramdas, was sentenced to a six months' prison term for violation of the salt laws.

An exchange telegraph dispatch from Bombay stated Ramdas had been taken into custody at Surat on a charge of aiding his father's campaign of civil disobedience by wilfully removing salt from the waters of the gulf of Cambay.

When Ramdas was called before the court, the dispatch added, he launched into an anti-government speech, during the course of which he admitted removing the salt but denied he had committed any offense.

The court held, however, that wilful removal of salt from the water constituted a violation of the Government salt laws, and sentenced him to six months in prison.

A huge crowd containing many Gandhi sympathizers gathered outside the court-house while the case of Ramdas was being decided. They staged a demonstration of protest upon learning he had been sentenced to jail.

Meanwhile Gandhi himself continued his defiance of the police, goading them to take him into custody. The authorities are mowing down his lieutenants and supporters right and left, but appear to be leaving the nationalist leader severely alone.

WALNUT-TWP FIRE DAMAGE IS $4,000

APRIL GRAND JURY RETURNS ELEVEN INDICTMENTS

NUMBER CASES SMALLER THAN EVER BEFORE

Little Time Spent With Colored Station Robbers and Girl Auto Thieves.

The Pickaway-co April grand jury, in session Monday and an hour Tuesday, returned 11 indictments out of 17 cases. Five cases were ignored and three were secret, and the case against Rolland Ward of Ashville, for removing mortgaged property from the county with intent to defraud was passed to the next grand jury because of the illness of the prosecution witness, R. L. Criswell, who is in a hospital.

The number of cases placed before the grand jury was the smallest that has ever been presented. County officials say that the fact that workhouse sentences have been dealt to numerous offenders has cut down crime considerably in Pickaway-co. This solution to the low number of cases seems to be the right one.

Those against whom indictments were returned were:

Forrest Moss for assault and battery on Peter Justus;

George Link, colored, for burglary of the outkitchen of Jane Hitt, this city;

Wesley Trego, Scioto-twp, for stealing chickens from Frank Hudson;

Noah Skaggs, who is now serving a sentence in the workhouse, for carrying concealed weapons.

Stewart Quann, for failure to provide for two minor children;

Frank Holt and Ernest Gill, colored of Columbus, for robbery of the Lindsey service station on the Columbus-pk last Saturday;

Daisy Reisinger and Roney DeSonia for automobile theft of the car of Wesley Nibert here last Friday night;

Albert McWhorter, Era, O., for burglary and larceny of the grocery of Leo Creath, Era.

The grand jury, of which H. E. Defenbaugh of Tarlton, was foreman, reported at about 10:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Very little time was taken with several of the cases, including those of Frank Holt and Ernest Gill, who were apprehended less than one-half hour after they were said to have taken $5 from Mrs. Leah Lindsey of the Columbus-pk.

Very little time was spent over the case of Daisy Reisinger and Roney DeSonia for stealing cars.

MAN DONATES TO HOSPITAL

Another citizen has stepped forward to aid in the success of the new Berger hospital—by agreeing to furnish a $250 two-bed room.

In conversation with a member of the hospital commission Monday this person, who does not want his name disclosed signified his intention to do something for the hospital and to go quite a lot farther, wrote a check for $250 and handed it to this commissioner.

This man has been a well known person in Circleville for many years, and although his name is not being told, we are certain he has done an act for which he should be very proud.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Millions of Illinois voters tramped to the polls today to decide the most spectacular primary the state has ever experienced—a contest that has pitted a brainy, resourceful woman against a skilled politician of the old school.

By nightfall they will have determined whether Ruth Hanna McCormick is to be the Republican nominee for the Senate, or whether it is to be Senator Charles S. Deneen, a two-time governor, who has been a power in Illinois affairs for more than a quarter of a century. It is an engrossing contest. Mrs. McCormick is the first of her sex to make a real bid for the Senate. Moreover, she is the daughter of one famous senator, Mark Hanna, the widow of another, Medill McCormick. The situation offers a vehicle for a first class drama.

The surface odds, betting, climatic and otherwise, favored the woman as the trek to the polls began at sunrise this morning. The so-called wise money in the loop was being wagered eight against five that she will defeat Deneen.

TRUAX LAUDS CAL COOLIDGE

Says Urban Prosperity Walked Out of White House When He Did.

LIMA, O., April 8.—"When Calvin Coolidge walked out of the Whitehouse, urban prosperity walked out with him, and is so conspicuous by its absence that for the first time in history, prosperity must be advertised from billboards so that we may know it is still here," declared Charles V. Truax, of Bucyrus, former director of agriculture and Democratic candidate for United States Senator in a speech here today.

Truax pointed to the lower prices which farmers are receiving for wheat and livestock now and held the Hoover administration responsible. He also said that "Wall Street had bankrupted the farmer."

"After doing that, and driving the independent merchant and manufacturer out of business, Wall Street now seeks new and larger fields," stated the Bucyrus man.

BELIEVE CHILD PLAYING WITH MATCH CAUSE

Barn on Jess Courtright Farm Burned To Ground—Car,
Corn, Destroyed.

A fire, thought to have started from a match in the hands of Kenneth, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Koch, residing on the Jess Courtright farm in Walnut-twp Monday, destroyed a barn, 300 bushels of sweet corn, a Ford automobile belonging to a hired hand, eight tons of hay, a quantity of oats and a small amount of farm equipment. Damage is estimated at about $4,000.

Although it has not been ascertained that the blaze started from the matches the Koch child was playing with, no other cause for the fire has yet been advanced.

Mrs. Koch was working in the upstairs of the house when she saw the fire in the barn after it had gained much headway. She hurried to call the Ashville fire department but by the time the firemen arrived, all that was left for them to do was to try to prevent the flames from spreading.

The house is only about 30 feet from the barn, and was in danger at all times of becoming ignited. Diligent work by the fire department and volunteers prevented the house from becoming a ruin.

Discovery of a chair, in the house, directly under the match box, led Mrs. Koch to believe Kenneth had been playing with matches. Fear was felt for the child for a short time after the fire was discovered but he was found under the porch of the house frightened.

The barn was completely burned to the ground. Mr. Koch had just had his sweet corn tested which makes a heavy loss to him.

Albert "Dick" McWharton of Era, O., was indicted by the April grand jury less than two hours after his arrest on a charge of burglary and larceny filed after a thorough investigation by Deputy Sheriff Carl Porter of a robbery at the grocery store of Leo Creath at Era, on Saturday night, March 29.

The sum of $5 in cash was stolen from the money drawer in the store after Creath had closed his store for the night and two slot machines were also stolen. The machines were traced to a well where the thieves had thrown them after they had smashed them and stolen their contents. Tracks from the well to a residence led to the arrest of McWharton. Another man living at Era has also confessed to participation in the robbery although no charge has yet been filed.

STYLE REVUE HUGE SUCCESS

Fashion Parades With Charming Models at the Cliftona Brings Comment.

A fashion parade of pajamas followed closely by a parade of bathing suits was the snappy opening of the Style Revue of the Crist Department Store, and Mack's Shoe Store at the Cliftona Monday night to be followed by performances on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

The style revue was a supplement to the regular theater performance of "No, No, Nanette" and the flowers on the stage were supplied by the Mitchell Greenhouse.

A back drop of silver cloth and black velvet provided the proper setting for the eight young girls who modeled lovely dresses, hats, shoes, coats, suits, pajamas, bathing suits, hosiery and accessories.

An all-lace dress with a laven-der sheen, and a hat to match received the most applause during the first show Monday night. As the model promenaded on the stage the organist played wedding music, and the appropriateness of the gown for a bride's maid's costume was suggested.

Evening and informal dresses were also popular. A red evening dress with ripples of tiers, and a mammoth bow like a bustle, worn by the brunette model was popular, and several as well as the suits and coats, which looked stunning and smart on the stage.

These girls who modeled also appeared in a wooden shoe dance,
a number taken from "No, No, Nanette," which they did with enthusiasm and winning smiles.

The manner in which they managed the big shoes was amazing, and made such a bit with the audience that they were called back for an encore.

POMEROY, O., April 8.—An auto-plane race with death ended here Monday in failure.

Adolph Reuter, when informed of the serious illness of his mother here, was in Kansas City. He chartered a plane and flew to St.
Louis where he joined his niece,
Miss Alma Sabol. The two continued to Columbus, Ohio, by

CAMPAIGN

big question but we do know that out of a possible eighteen candidates who are really trying, six will win prizes and the others will collect only their commissions according to the campaign plan.

The procrastinators will go along in the hopes that their friends will pull them through at the end, but what an awakening they are in for! Nothing under the blue can-opy of heaven will pull them through other than their own efforts, and it is a "cinch" that by the way some of the candidates have been trying, their efforts will not count for much, for little or no effort has been put forth by these few. Unless some of the candidates wake up, as they have been repeatedly warned to do, they will be absolutely lost when the awards will be given.

Just a few days, and it's all over. It is a safe bet that at no future time will such a meritorious offer be given by any local newspaper and those who fail to take advantage of this proposition will lose the one big chance of a century to win one of two motor cars, living room suite, a radio and other prizes, absolutely free.
The time to win these prizes is right now, during the present offer.
Listen, candidates, if you have not secured enough subscriptions to land that 275,000 bonus ballot or extra votes, then get busy, wake up, don't let this offer slip by unheeded, for you are a "gonner"
if you do.

Think what it means to add 275,000
extra votes to your reserve stock. Think what a satisfied feeling you will have when you deftly tuck that bonus ballot away, and turn it in the last day, with the others you have been saving.

Don't fail on this offer, or you will be quite apt to resemble the Biblical story of the foolish virgins, who went thoughtlessly along with empty lamps. Just think what a little extra work will accomplish for you today.

Go after your friends and collect those promises. They have promised you their assistance, so explain to them that today you need that promised subscription for it will help you land that large bonus ballot. It's plainly up to you, don't let this opportunity slip.
You will rue it if you do. Prizes will be won by those having the greatest number of votes. Nothing else. Here is your chance to acquire those desired votes and no one will be to blame but yourself if you fall down. Don't do it, make yourself unbeatable by landing that 275,000 bonus ballot.

TRAINING CAMP SHORTS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 8.—

Babe Ruth was reported much improved as the Yankees arrived here today after defeating Little Rock yesterday 7 to 5. Manager Shawkey announced the Babe's injured leg was not as badly wrenched as first believed and he may be in uniform before the week ends.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 8.—

The New York Giants were on their way northward today, leaving behind Mr. Ed Roush and a 11 to 10 defeat at the hands of the Chicago White Sox. Roush, center fielder who failed to report for spring training, suddenly dropped in yesterday, shook hands with Manager McGraw and departed.
Indications were that Roush made no effort to discuss business with McGraw. Reports were he may retire from baseball altogether.

MACON, Ga., April 8.—Manager

Wilbert Robinson's Robins revealed in two victories today the "Varsity" defeated the Atlanta Crackers 5 to 5 and the Brooklyn
Yanigans won from the Macon
Peaches 6 to 5. Center Fielder Frederick was the hero of the senior fray, getting three hits.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 8.—

It was a great day for Arthur (Whitman) Shires, he of prize ring fame.

In the final accounting of the Chicago White Sox victory over the New York Giants yesterday Shires stepped to the plate in the tenth inning with a home run and two singles to his credit and battled out a single to score the winning tally.

The Sox won, 11 to 10.

EL PASO, Tex., April 8.—Despite an inclination among the experts that the Chicago Cubs did not derive full benefit from their training, Manager Joe McCarthy today announced that all is satisfactory with his squad of champions.

Furthermore the Cubs will prove that they are in championship shape when they open their last exhibition series at Kansas City this Thursday, McCarthy said.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 8.

The final exhibition game between the Cleveland Indians and the New Orleans Pelicans was scheduled to be played here today with Walter Miller hurling for the Tribe, Lefty Fuhr was expected to take the mound for the Pels.

Willis Hudlin pitched for the Indians in yesterday's contest, which ended in a 10-to-6 victory for the Tribe. Hudlin fanned 12 Pelicans while Johnny Hodapp led the clouting activities with two doubles and a single in five trips to the plate.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., April 8.

The Nats, homeward bound, play the third game of their series with the Boston Braves here today. They left Charlotte after breakfast for the short trip.
Johnson's wonder boys have won the first two, and in yesterday's game "Goose" Goslin made his third homer since joining the team after a long hold-out.

The report was out today that

Clark Griffith has already asked waivers on "Red Barnes, University of Alabama star. Such action was forecast days ago.

Johnson has virtually decided that Utility Infielder Jack Hayes will be substitute first sacker this season, and there appears to be a good chance that he may supplant Buddy Myer at second.

It's wise to choose a SIX!

It is wise to choose a six-cylinder motor
—the only way to get six-cylinder smoothness. Six-cylinder smoothness takes out vibration and roughness. This saves motor, chassis, body, passengers, and the driver.

The Chevrolet is a six. Yet it sells at a price that anyone can afford to pay. And it lasts longer, because of fine materials, oversize parts, and a big, smooth, 50-horsepower six-cylinder engine that always "takes it easy."

With all its six-cylinder smoothness and power the New Chevrolet Six saves gasoline and oil, through modern efficiency—overhead valves—high compression power—improved carburetor ventilation—air cleaner. Thus Chev-within reach of all who can afford any car. Chevrolet economy also means sincerity in manufacture. To illustrate:

Chevrolet valves are adjustable—to save

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION ATTACKS GIRLS ATHLETICS

By JOHN J. VINCENT
International News Service
Staff Correspondent.
COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—Asserting that the "traditional" hyteria after victory and melancholia over defeat" was harmful to girls of Ohio high schools, the state department of education today had issued a report attacking county basketball tournaments and interscholastic competition for girls.

Girls' teams, the report insisted, should be coached by women only, because "men do not recognize the limitation of girls and cannot discuss health problems frankly with them."

County basketball tournaments were condemned by the report and interscholastic competition for girls was termed as "questionable."

Interscholastic games, the official communique insisted, "do not come first," and are "nuisances." With the signature of John L. Clifton, state educational director affixed to it, the report condemned football for girls, basketball under boys rules, long runs, jumping in competition, hurdling, weight throwing and pole vaulting and classed soccer and baseball with a hard ball as "doubtful."

In listing the games that were not harmful to the young misses of high schools, the report included volleyball, tennis, horseshoes, nine-court basketball, 50 yard dashes, and relay races.

The question involved came to the forefront about three years ago and has been a matter of much discussion since then. It is the first time, however, that a state department issued an official report, and it may deal the death-blow to county basketball tournaments for girls.

According to H. R. Townsend, commissioner of Ohio High School athletics, 70 such tournaments were held in the state last year. The state department of education, Townsend believes, has the power to enforce the recommendations it made in the report.

Eighteen Ohio counties do not countenance county tournaments for girls. They include Highland, Meigs, Greene, Lorain, Stark, Jefferson, Tuscarawas Wood, Crawford and Coshocton counties.

PRIMARIES

and the betting is considerable. Yet notwithstanding the betting and the confidence of Mrs. McCormick's friends, there existed today in many quarters a vast uncertainty over the outcome, and the feeling that the McCormick-Deneen contest is a "horse race."

The Deneen camp is just as confident as the McCormick camp, and it is a confidence born of many years of practical politics.

As the campaign ended there were strange tales of deals and bargains and combinations afoot. The factions are many and the feeling intense, and to this puzzling potpourri is added the bewildering complexities of ward leaders' contests, party central committee fights and aldermanic trades.

The weather was fair throughout the state, and that was supposed to be a happy omen for Mrs. McCormick. She campaigned throughout the state's 102 counties, lambasting Senator Deneen's record from stem to stern, with particular emphasis upon his vote for American adherence to the world court.

Her supporters count upon her coming up to the Cook-co line with an even break or better, and here in Cook-co (Chicago) they are depending upon a margin of from 50,000 to 100,000 votes.

The fact that few of the McCormick leaders predict a margin of victory greater than 100,000 in a total vote of several millions is in itself eloquent testimony to the closeness of the struggle.

Both sides are watchful and alert. The closeness of the contest makes it imperative that each side take extra precautions against fraudulent voting. Thousands of volunteer watchers will be on duty in the 7,117 precincts from sun-up until the polls close at 5 p. m.

for Economical Transportation

It's wise to choose a SIX!

It is wise to choose a six-cylinder motor—the only way to get six-cylinder smoothness. Six-cylinder smoothness takes out vibration and roughness. This saves motor, chassis, body, passengers, and the driver.

The Chevrolet is a six. Yet it sells at a price that anyone can afford to pay. And it lasts longer, because of fine materials, oversize parts, and a big, smooth, 50-horsepower six-cylinder engine that always "takes it easy."

With all its six-cylinder smoothness and power the New Chevrolet Six saves gasoline and oil, through modern efficiency—overhead valves—high compression power—improved carburetor—long-wearing pistons—crankcase ventilation—air cleaner. Thus Chevrolet brings truly modern transportation within reach of all who can afford any car. Chevrolet economy also means sincerity in manufacture. To illustrate:

Chevrolet valves are adjustable—to save replacing. Chevrolet molded brake lining greatly reduces brake upkeep. The rear axle inspection plate on the Chevrolet means accessibility. The whole car is full of such evidence that true economy comes from advancement and refinement.

There are four extra-long, chrome-vanadium springs controlled by hydraulic shock absorbers. They are mounted lengthwise, in the direction of car travel, with self-adjusting spring shackles to maintain quietness.

With modern low suspension and extra wheelbase, the Chevrolet Six has good proportions. The impressive front view is distinguished by the genuine honeycomb radiator. The gasoline tank is in the rear for safety and finer appearance.

Chevrolet beauty instantly says "Body by Fisher"—style, comfort, safety—Fisher composite steel-and-wood construction—non-glare windshield—adjustable driver's seat—deeper cushions—greater leg room—clearer vision—finer fabrics and fitments.

There is just as much extra value throughout. BY ANY STANDARD the Chevrolet Six is the wisest choice in the low-price field . . . with its six-cylinder valve-in-head motor . . . with full scientific equipment . . . with Body by Fisher . . . with four long semi-elliptic springs, long wheelbase, low suspension, rear mounted gasoline tank, honeycomb radiator and all the other features of this day and age.

See your nearest Chevrolet dealer today and drive this six. Ten minutes at the wheel will show you what a difference six cylinders make.

MAN HELD FOR JURY ACTION

Columbusite Admits Trying To Set House Afire To Collect Insurance

COLUMBUS, O., April 8—William W. Montoney, 27, today was awaiting action of the grand jury, under $3,000 bond, charged with setting his own residence on fire so that he might collect the insurance.

After spending many tedious hours constructing an intricate automatic device which would start a fire in the attic at any set time, his carefully-laid plans failed when he forgot to open a window in order that the fire might have plenty of oxygen to make fast headway, it is alleged. Instead, the blaze spread very slowly and was extinguished by firemen with little difficulty.

Montoney, found at the home of a friend shortly after the fire was put out, is said to have confessed to the attempted destruction of his home. He admitted that he had renewed his policy on the house last Thursday.

SMUGGLERS MOVE FRONT

Federal Employee Says Rum Runners Move From Detroit To Atlantic.

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—Rum smugglers have started to transfer their theatre of operation from the Detroit river to other sections of the border and the Atlantic seaboard, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman said today.

Reports from Detroit showed that smuggling has been reduced by fifty percent since the bulk of the border guards were deployed in that vicinity to plug up the biggest smuggling leak.

"There is no probability of a re-establishment of a rum-row such as existed off the north-eastern coast some years ago," Lowman said. "The smugglers who are being driven off the Canadian border will be more likely to use fast boats to duck into some inlet under cover of fog or darkness, as the opportunity presents."

Lowman said that the coast guard had sufficient forces in the north Atlantic to take care of the anticipated increase in the activity of smugglers this spring. If reinforcements are needed they may be transferred from Florida waters where a large fleet has been maintained during the winter tourist season.

If congress enacts legislation to transfer the prohibition bureau to the justice department, the treasury will have an opportunity to concentrate its efforts on enforcement against smugglers since the coast guard and customs service would remain in the treasury.

"Smuggling will naturally be a permanent problem, but it already as been reduced materially," Lowman declared. Very little foreign liquor reaches the consumer. The bulk of the stuff illegally sold is produced from corn-sugar alcohol.

Lowman said the drive against illicit distilleries is being pressed, and that stills are being captured at the rate of nearly 2,000 a month. The producers of alcohol are learning to comparatively small plants, thousands of which are scattered through the large population areas.

Officials said that even though the anti-smuggling and prohibition forces may be in different departments, just as effective cooperation can be secured as in now the case with both under the treasury.

The Tennessee river fight is on again, and sooner or later the nation will have a chance to see how much muscle there is in Muscle Shoals.

"SHEIK'S WIFE"

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

THHEY met on the train going up to Haverford.

He saw first a stout little flat-heeled brogue sticking out beyond the Pullman chair, and for the first ten miles of her journey this was all he knew of her—that she wore brogues sometimes—for the chair was turned and he could not see over the top.

Idling as were his thoughts in the languid winsomeness of April, they fixed themselves upon that little shoe critically, with all the questioning attitude of his artist's mind.

It was singularly dainty for such a common sense bit of footgear, heavy-soled for utility and stitched across the vamp for smartness. The girls he knew best were fragile, spike-heeled pumps, and he reflected unhappily that this girl probably would be some other gaiter in the hills in dowdy knickers and sweater with a knapass strapped to her back.

Not the girl a man would care to strike acquaintance with even for a tedious hour on the train. Didn't they know better than to go about aping men, taking on all the braggart unattractiveness, and the bringing out their own worst points as well? Women!

The brogue moved slightly—the girl had slid further down in her chair—and he leaned forward, his surprised glance slipping along a length of sheerest chiffon hose quite inconsistent with the brogue, but delightful to the sight.

A deeply arched instep rising to slender elegance above a dancer's foot!—and a fine running up to the edge of a knitted beige skirt in the merest hint of curve, ending in a knee that was neither knobby nor fat. The girl must be young and graceful—certainly graceful. Artistic too. Her ankle showed bare flesh. Last winter, when he ran done petticoats for a gallery house, they had searched New York for just such a model. And searched in vain.

Eventually the chair swung round almost as if moved by the force of his curiosity. Slowly it turned and abruptly he found himself looking into a pair of brilliant eyes so warm, friendly, yes, with laughter in them somewhere, and earnestness and eagerness as well, just for a fleeting instant.

Then, as a light is dimmed, the friendliness was withdrawn; the warmth vanished. The girl looked through and beyond him and turned indifferently toward the window. But so quick was the change of contact in that brief instant, and so complete the feeling of closeness now it had passed, that he dropped his head rather like a collapsed soldier and muttered aloud "Why?"

The girl had no thought at worth time to turn her chest as if from him or to say anything more than "No."

"What do you think I am," asked he, leaning forward again, "an angel?"

"An angel who has been sent here to tempt me?" she said, smiling at him and shaking her head.

"And how much longer will you stay here?" he asked, still leaning forward.

"Oh, until I can get away." She smiled at him and shook her head.

"Where are you going?" he asked, still leaning forward.

"To my home," she answered, smiling at him and shaking her head.

"Is your home far?" he asked, still leaning forward.

"Yes, very far," she answered, smiling at him and shaking her head.

"How long have you lived there?" he asked, still leaning forward.

"Since I was born," she answered, smiling at him and shaking her head.

"Do you love it?" he asked, still leaning forward.

"I don't know," she answered, smiling at him and shaking her head.

"But you're happy here?" he asked, still leaning forward.

"Yes, I'm happy," she answered, smiling at him and shaking her head.

"That's good," he said, sitting back.

The disease involves the nervous system, the digestive tract and the skin. There are pronounced gastric disturbances, nausea, gas formation and diarrhoea. Skin eruptions appear in spots or groups of spots. It may look not unlike sunburn. After a few days these symptoms pass and the skin is left rough and scaly. There is burning in the mouth and swelling of the tongue. Pains are felt here and there. The sleep is broken.

Sophie Tucker, with Lila Lee and George Durvay, play the leading roles in the Grand Theatre's picture, "Honky Tonk" which appears Tuesday. The story is a romance of Broadway night club life.

The theme tells of a mother who gave the best years of her life for her daughter only to have the daughter hate her.

FUTURE TAXES
Speaking of taxes—and there is plenty of conversation on that subject nowadays—Robert H. Lucas, U. S. commissioner of internal revenue, says this:
"The farther we get away from the last war, and the farther we stay away from the next war, the smaller the income tax will be. After the next war, if there is one, the income tax will so far overshadow the present tax that you'll think you never paid one."
Which is just one more reason for spending a little time and thought, and if necessary a little more money, in what some of our supposedly practical friends consider the sentimental cause of peace.

SPEAK-EASY TROUBLES
Pity the poor speak-easy operator. His lot is not a happy one. The New York World made a poll of 200 speak-easies in the metropolis "with no other purpose than to offer the views of the men actually engaged in the illegal liquor traffic. It found them overwhelmingly in favor of modification, for reasons which the World considers "astounding."
Graft and extortion are the two chief reasons for their attitude. Other reasons are:
"Extreme hazard due to possible official raids;
"Fear of hold-ups; gunmen know that police will not receive complaints from their victims;
"Possible loss of total investment by padlock;
"Rents doubled because of padlock possibilities;
"Business small and uncertain compared with pre-war wet restaurants;
"Non-paying customers (police-men and their friends);
"Social stigma placed on speak-easy owner and his family;
"Loss of high class patronage because of home delivery."
Off-hand advice to these harassed individuals would be to get out of such a hazardous and unattractive business without waiting for the padlock.

A conclusion that might be drawn from these complaints of the speak-easy proprietors is that prohibition is working better than some people have thought, since this branch of the illicit traffic has so many draw-backs and troubles.

MORE CRASHES, FEWER DEATHS
Grade crossing statistics published the other day by the Interstate Commerce Commission indicate an odd situation. The number of accidents at such crossings increased last year, but the number of fatalities decreased. There were 5,975 of these accidents in 1929 as compared with 5,800 in 1928. There were 6,804 persons injured in the 1929 crashes against only 6,668 injured the year before. The deaths, however, decreased from 2,568 in 1928 to 2,485 in 1929.
Does this mean that motorists are becoming tougher, so that they resist such death more easily? Or does it have some other explanation?
It is better to have fewer deaths from this cause than not, but the ideal development it is to have fewer accidents, fewer injuries and fewer deaths.

It's evident from recent ginger-isopropyl revelations that half the world doesn't know what the other half drinks.

CHAPTER I.
THEY met on the train going up to Haverford.
He saw first a stout little flat-heeled brogue sticking out beyond the Pullman chair, and for the first ten miles of their journey this was all he knew of her—that she wore brogues sometimes—for the chair was turned and he could not see over the top.
Idling as were his thoughts in the languid winsomeness of April, they fixed themselves upon that little shoe critically, with all the questioning attitude of his artist's mind.

It was singularly dainty for such a common sense bit of footwear, heavy-soled for utility and stitched across the vamp for smartness. The girls he knew best wore fragile, spike-heeled pumps, and he reflected uphappily that this girl probably would be some hiker going up from New York for a tramp in the hills in dowdy knickers and sweater with a knapsack strapped to her back.
Not the girl a man would care to strike acquaintance with even for a tedious hour on the train. Didn't they know better than to go about aping men, taking on all the masculine unattractiveness, and bringing out their own worst points as well? Women!

The brogue moved slightly—the girl had slid further down in her chair—and he leaned forward, his surprised glance slipping along a length of sheerest chiffon hose quite inconsistent with the brogue, but delightful to the sight.
A steeply arched instep rising to a slender ankle—wasn't this a dancer's foot?—and a line running up to the edge of a knitted beige skirt in the merest hint of curve, ending in a knee that was neither knobby nor fat. The girl must be young and graceful—certainly graceful. Aristocratic, too. Her ankle showed breeding. Last Winter, when he had done posters for a hoisery house, they had searched New York for just such a model. And searched in vain.

Eventually the chair swung round almost as if moved by the force of his curiosity. Slowly it turned and abruptly he found himself looking into a pair of red-brown eyes, warm, friendly eyes, with laughter in them somewhere and earnestness and eagerness as well, just for a fleeting instant.
Then, as a light is dimmed, the friendliness was withdrawn, the warmth vanished. The girl looked tough and beyond him and turned indifferently toward the window. But so vivid had been his sense of contact in that brief instant, and so complete was his feeling of aloneness now it had passed, that he dropped back rather like a collapsed balloon and muttered aloud, "Well!"

The girl had not thought it worth while to turn her chair and now he could see what she was like. Not the frump he had imagined! The little knitted suit bespoke Fifth Avenue, if not Fifty-seventh street, and there was nowhere about her a hint of the rough and ready hiker. All slender youthfulness she was, like the silver birches which grew so straight and proud in the bits of woodland beside the tracks. And the pinky-white sweetness of her face made him think of the cherry blossoms which kept sending their fragrance through the open window at his elbow. Orchards all along the way—what a day! If a chap could cross the aisle, bend over her, say something to bring a smile to those half-pouting, small-girl lips.

Besides her hair was red. Not bricky, nor the Titian which challenges adventure. Some, indeed, might have called the mop, parted and done in a knot at her neck, merely "blond," and let it go at that, but the artist instinct was more exact. He classed it "amber," and in thought painted it in tints shading from gold to bronze, as the light played on its smoothness, though escaped ends curling at her temples were like little threads of flame.

One did not speak to a girl with hair like that when she wished not to be spoken to.
And because he was a sincere workman, an artist from the tips of his long, thin fingers to the top of his sleek, dark head, he might never have thought of her again had the train not slowed as it ran out on a little bridge and started up with a lurch.
Absorbed in thought of work, he was returning to his seat, crossing between coaches, when it happened. The girl was at an open door, upon the shelf which covers Pullman steps when the door is closed as this one should have been, and she was gazing down on the river far below.

The wheels ground all at once; the train jerked all along its length and the jar flung her forward. With a frightened cry she clutched for something—anything—but she had been leaning far out and her balance was gone.
But something was holding her; hands were rough on her shoulders snatching her from the empty space above the river. She stood upon the platform again and closed her eyes, sobbing.

The tall young man held to her shoulders, pressing her against the side of the door, for she seemed about to faint.
"Don't shake like that," he ordered her huskily. "You're all right now. They'd no business leaving that thing open. Good Lord, don't cry! Here—can you walk? Let's get inside."
She moved beside him, still trembling, and he took her to her seat, helping her gently, bringing a cushion for her feet. But when he got a little flask and offered her brandy she refused.
"But you need something. Water then—"
He brought water, and after awhile she stopped shaking and smiled, though her lips were pale.
"I suppose I must thank you for saving my life. I'm afraid my uncles were right—they're my family, you see, four uncles. They said I'd never get as far as Haverford all by myself. I'm sort of silly, I expect, doing a thing like that."

"You're all right now," he repeated. And then because she looked so little and scared and because some of the interest he had felt in the beginning had come back, he sat down in the chair ahead, turning it so they faced each other, and began to talk about the orchards and the frosty thia spilled everywhere like pools of gold and the springtime lakes which lay in the fields like broken mirrors. And finally pink came back to her cheeks and her hand no longer twisted in her lap.
Then he said, quite casually

Right Foods Will Halt Pellagra

This Disease, on the Increase, Gives Way Before a Well-Balanced Protein Diet.
By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.
PELLAGRA is a disease which was first discovered in northern Spain away back in 1735. Fortunately it is a disease of man found in relatively few places.
For many years it was common only in some parts of Italy. In the past century people in some parts of France, Roumania and Egypt have been afflicted by it.
The United States did not recognize the disease as such until 1903. It was first discovered in Georgia. Among the poor and undernourished in some towns the diet was very much restricted to corn. Here it was that pellagra was found to thrive.
Since that time pellagra has rapidly increased in the rural South and Middle West. By 1917 there were reported some 170,000 cases.
Investigators of this disease have attributed it to many different factors. Now the leading authorities agree that it is due to faulty diet.
Good Hygiene.
The disease involves the nervous system, the digestive tract and the skin. There are pronounced gastric disturbances, nausea, gas formation and diarrhoea. Skin eruptions appear in spots or groups of spots. It looks like a bad case of sunburn. After a few days these symptoms pass and the skin is left rough and scaly.
There is burning in the mouth and swelling of the tongue. Pains are felt here and there. The sleep is broken.
Proper food and good hygiene are the secrets of cure for this trouble. One should follow a diet composed of plenty of sweet milk, buttermilk, steak lamb chops and the white meat of chicken, fresh fish, canned salmon and the finer grained vegetables.
It is more important that the health be built up by the use of this nutritious but simple diet. Vigor and vitality will be restored and resistance to disease secured.
Most interesting are recent experiments in pellagra made at the Georgia State Sanatorium. It has been found that canned salmon contains the preventive factor for this disease. Certainly it is a good as well as a cheap substitute for meat in the diet when the latter is not available.
Among the poorer classes in the industrial towns of Georgia the diet has consisted largely of corn and corn products. It was evident that these people were not well nourished.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA
The screen production of "No, No, Nanette," which is at the Cliftona Theatre contains song hits from the original stage show as well as many new numbers which have already attained great popularity since the recent release of this colorful First National picture.
"Tea For Two" and "I Want To Be Happy" from the footlight production will be heard in the Vitaphone edition, sung by a chorus of 150 and the two featured leads, Bernice Claire and Alexander Gray. These two songs were among the country's best sellers when "No, No, Nanette" was having its sensational success on Broadway.
The big number of the picture, however, is "King of the Air," by Eddie Ward and Al Bryan, one of Hollywood's most harmonious song writing teams. Three other numbers based on lavish scenes in the film are "Dancing on Mars" by Michael H. Cleary, Ned Washington and Herb Magidson; "The Japanese Ballet" by M. Jerome and Herman Ruby; and "The Dance of the Wooden Shoes," by Cleary, Washington and Magidson.
And also there are "Pretending," by Ruby and Jerome and "As Long As I'm With You," by Harry K. Akst and Grant Clarke.
The cast of noted players includes Lucien Littlefield, Louise Fazenda, Lilyan Tashman, Bert Roach, Zasu Pitts, Mildred Harris, Henry Stockbridge and Jocelyn Lee. Clarence Badger directed and Harry Chaballus was in charge of the dances.

Island of Horror

Devil's island is located in a group of islands called the Iles Du Salut, in French Guiana, off the coast of South America. Here is located a French penal station, with administrative headquarters in Ile Royale, nearest the mainland. To the seaward is the Ile Du Diable (Devil's island), noteworthy as the prison of Alfred Dreyfus, confined there in 1894-99. It is inhabited mainly by transported lepers.

News of the Homes and Home Folks

Published by STEVENSON'S

VOL. 2. No. 14. Tuesday, April 8, 1930.

'ROUND-THE-TOWN TOPICS

Here's a shot in the arm from our old friend Ed. Sensenbrenner. Ed. says he "saw a grandmother the other day who had just gotten a boyish bob and it certainly made a remarkable change in her appearance. She really didn't look like an old lady anyway. The fact is, she looked like an old man."

One of our contemporary editorial writers, (Arthur Brisbane, if you must know) claims that the most active animals are invariably meat-eaters. Uh huh, Mr. Brisbane, but did you ever try to race a squirrel up a tree? (That ought to hold him, say we.)

The national income is $9 billion dollars a year. Now don't spend your share foolishly—come in our store and get honest value for your money.

The Equinoctial Storms—(sometimes laughingly referred to as April showers) often make it inconvenient for folks to do their shopping in person. Whatever your needs may be—remember, a phone call will send us hurrying and scurrying to deliver your order. And there is no extra charge for this service.

Mrs. F. E. Barnhill told us that she wished-to-goodness Mr. Barnhill had purchased some garden tools instead of that set of golf clubs. According to her Frank should reach for a spading fork instead of a spoon.

Our records show that 65 families voted unanimously for Heat-roils during the past year. Summer warmth in the summer (naturally), and summer warmth in the winter, too. Which, to us, seems a very satisfactory state of affairs.

Well, we're in it. For quite a long time we have kept out of the electric refrigerator game, but we had to get in with the other boys. We took our time in looking around investigating the various makes and have finally signed up for the oldest electric refrigerator on the market—the KELVINATOR.

This well-known line was first introduced to the public more than fourteen years ago. With the benefit of the experience of all of these years, the Kelvinator are now producing one of the very best makes on the market. Several families in Circleville have been Kelvinated for years. Ask a user if they are satisfied—we couldn't find a disgruntled one. Drop around to this store and let us demonstrate this modern refrigerating plant to you.

Ed. (the string around your finger).
John Hummel: "My wife put it there. I remember to mail it."
Ed: "Did you mail it?"
John: "No she forgot to give it."

For the size of the dog in the family, the size of the fight in the dog that count.

HOMER HANDY'S HINT

You can sharpen scissors by cutting several times through a piece of old sandpaper. Knives may be sharpened the same way.

S. T. Rife likes to tune in Amos 'n' Andy, but the Fresh Air Taxicab Corporation has nothing to do with the Fresh Air Oven of an Estate Gas Range. There are no troubles associated with the latter. Nothing, in fact, except perfect baking results every time. By the way, the 1930 models are on display.

Polly: "Really, we wouldn't be driving to California if Uncle John hadn't cleaned up that fortune in crooked dough."
Kate: "What was he, anyway, a counterfeiter?"
Polly: "Oh, no a pretzel manufacturer."

We are also prepared to make immediate delivery of Pyrofax equipment to any one living in this county. A WELL set water wave adds charm to the smart bob. Performed by Goeller's, the wave is an expression of your own personality, as well as the mode.
